Ruling by state AG lightens financial burden of managing BWD land

By ALISON ALOISIO

A consent agreement from the Maine Attorney General's office that would make the town of Bethel the trustee of 2,300 acres of Bethel Water District land will no longer require the town to maintain the BWD's infrastructure near Chapman Brook, selectmen learned Monday.

The town would, however, have to protect the brook's water quality in the event it is needed as an emergency water supply.

The brook formerly served as Bethel's primary water supply, until a devastating flood in 2007 prompted the drilling of wells elsewhere.

But the change created a dilemma. In the early 20th century the 2,300-acre watershed, located in Newry, had been given to the BWD by William Bingham.

His 1925 deed stated that if the watershed ceased to be used as a water source, it would be transferred to the state of Maine.

The Bethel Water District last year asked to modify the deed to allow it to retain the land and use it as an emergency water source, as well as harvest wood and establish recreation trails.

But in September the AG's office instead proposed as part of a consent agreement that the town serve as the

A peek at Christmas in the parlor

Nearly 60 people attended the annual "Christmas at the Mason House" at the 1813 Dr. Moses Mason House in Bethel Saturday. The house was decorated with evergreen boughs, berries and fruit for the holidays, and fireplaces were blazing and candles lit. In the parlor, Lorie Hoeh (shown here), dressed for the 19th century era, knit by the fire. Conni St. Pierre played harp music and Savannah Sessions served hot mulled cider from the hearth in the winter kitchen. More photos, Pages 12-13.

Proposed North Road asphalt plant worries neighbors, businesses

By ALISON ALOISIO

An asphalt plant proposed for the North Road has triggered strong opposition from neighbors and Bethel businesspeople concerned about the petroleum-like smell they say the facility could generate.

Bruce A. Manzer, Inc. has applied to the Bethel Planning Board to build the plant on the back portion of a 23-acre gravel pit lot, located near the Coleman Concrete plant.

Manzer has been operating a temporary asphalt plant, approved by the board in 2008, on land leased from Dick Douglass on the North Road. The new plant would be located across the road from the temporary site.

But after living near the temporary plant, Douglass and other residents decided they didn't want such a business as a permanent neighbor. They turned out last week at a public hearing to voice their opposition.

"There are days when it's really intolerable — the smoke and the smell," said neighbor Richard Angevine. "It smells like burning tires."

Another neighbor, Gina Douglass (Dick Douglass' daughter-in-law), agreed. "I have always enjoyed being outside at my house," she said. "This year there was no being outside at my house. You could not sit out there without your eyes burning from the fumes from the plant. I had to keep my windows closed a good portion of the summer."

The immediate neighbors weren't the only ones with concerns. Several businesspeople from the Mayville area on Route 2 said their businesses would also be affected.

The odor, said Norseman Inn owner John Cheney, "has lasted for hours. We've had guests ask, What is that

Giggles greet newest 'Guide' in Greenwood

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The 2011 Visitors' Guide recently released by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce provided a few good laughs, and some head shaking, at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Greenwood Board of Selectmen.

"I don't think we gave our lake to Bethel," Greenwood Town Manager Kim Sparks told her selectmen, in the course of giving them a heads-up about possible citizen reaction to the guide.

Sparks was referring to a two-page spread on pages 28-29 of the 62-page, four-color publication.

The headline enthused: "Bethel's 'Mystique' creates a favorable learning environment," and was imposed over a picture of — North and Round ponds in Woodstock and Greenwood.

"Can we sue for that?" asked Board Chair Fred Henderson.

"For false advertising?" suggested Selectman Amy Chapman.

Greenwood and Woodstock were not the only victims of the guide's promotional imperialism.

The front cover took similar liberties with geographic reality.

The guide is entitled: "Bethel Maine's most beautiful mountain village," with those words running over a certainly beautiful photograph of — The Lovejoy Covered Bridge in Andover.

Even the very visitors the guide is intended to guide might

MESys has high hopes for impact of new, pneumatic wood-pellet delivery trucks

By MICHAEL DANIELS

"The pellet industry is the Wild West," said Dutch Dresser.

Complete with the dust. Dresser, director and co-founder of Bethel-based Maine Energy Systems (MESys), was not talking about gunfights or even lawsuits among competitors in the emerging wood-pellet fuel market, but of the industry's economic infrastructure, which remains primitive when compared to fossil-fuel markets.

"The infrastructure for fossil fuel distribution is well established," Dresser said. "It centers on an aggregator—people like Irving Oil and Sprague energy, who invest heavily in the product off season, and then distribute it to the local oil-distributor guys during the heating season."

'When the market is big enough that pellet delivery is a viable economic proposition, people are going to want trucks that deliver pellets quickly, quietly and undamaged.'

DUTCH DRESSER, MESys co-founder

In the off-season, when prices are low, aggregators spend hundreds of millions of dollars to put oil in their tanks, so that they'll be ready for the next season.

"That model sort of takes care of how everybody in that chain gets their money and pays their money," he said.

But, by contrast, "there is no such aggregation in this industry yet, so the pellet mill is constantly in the position of having to sell to anyone who comes to the door, so they're constantly in the position of negotiating pricing, which really shouldn't be what they do," Dresser said. They should manufacture pellets; somebody else should put the pellets together and sell them to the distributors.

"Eventually that will happen," Dresser predicted, "but it hasn't happened yet."

"Everybody is trying to figure out how to get the distribution system built in a way that's economically feasible and reliable," Dresser said.

But one key element of such a system — efficient end-user delivery — has so far been lacking.

"This is a big piece in that puzzle, because when the market is big enough that pellet delivery is a viable economic proposition, people are going to want trucks that deliver pellets quickly, quietly and undamaged [i.e., not crushed into dust]."

The trucks currently in use — essentially, converted grain trucks — utilize hybrid mechanical/airlock systems and perform less than optimally on all three counts.

"We've been delivering suc-

A'over sued for alleged 'trespass' over 685 feet of meandering old road

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Town of Andover is being sued by a couple who claim that changes to the Sawyer Notch Road have caused the road to encroach on their property.

An attorney for Richard and Ronnie Pelletier filed the six-page complaint Sept. 29 in Oxford County Superior Court. The document provided records showing that the road originated as a county road in the early 1800s, and claimed that Andover "at all times intends that the Sawyer Brook Road continue as a town road."

But, the complaint said, within the past 10 years private property owners on the road have formed an informal road association "and have consistently altered the Sawyer Brook Road dimensions and location so that the road as it appears today is substantially different from the road as it was originally laid out."

Also provided was a map of what the couple claims is the original path of the road, overlaid with a map of the current path, which shifts back and forth across the old way and onto their property.

They said that by "knowingly" allowing the changes of course, "the town has committed a trespass."

The complaint also said the changes interfered with the Pelletier's use and enjoyment of their land.

The complaint asks the court to declare the road is public and that Andover is to main-

NATIVITY CASTING CALL

To the Editor:

Well, it is that time of the year again in which we as a community celebrate the Christmas season in many ways — Country Christmas in Bethel, school programs, church services, caroling, business and family open houses, and the annual Living Nativity, presented on the Common by the people of the community.

It is a wonderful opportunity that this community still affords itself, to quietly remember the foundational meaning of Christmas amidst all the hustle and bustle of everything else that has become part of the celebration.

How refreshing. How appropriate. What a joyful thing to gather the community around for at this special season of the year.

So, this is the annual call to all who would like to get involved in the presentation again (or for the first time) this year. It takes a lot of people to "pull it off," as we would like to include everyone.

We need shepherds, wise men, angels (big and small) and others who can work together with others to fill the cast. We also need community choir members who will sing in the gazebo. Finally, we are also in need of animals (the four-legged kind), sheep, goats, cows or any farm animals.

If anyone would like to be involved at any of these levels, preparation will begin at 3:30 p.m. on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 19, at the Bethel Inn Conference Center.

So come, don a costume, grab a shepherd's staff, put on a king's crown, or grow some angel wings and a halo (if for but a short time). We also need a crowd to watch, listen and sing, so come and be part of this special community expression Christmas celebration.

The presentation will begin at 5 p.m. on the common, next to the gazebo.

If anyone has questions, or would like to let us know of willingness to help in advance, please call (or leave a message) at 824-2289, Bethel Alliance Church.

We'll see everyone on the Bethel Common on the 19th. Merry Christmas. For more information, call me at 824-2715 or Nancy Bellinger at 824-4567.

CHIMES OF ADVENT RING AGAIN

To the Editor:

To you, and through you to your gentle readers.

Some of the neighbors of Mid-Town Main Street wish to thank "The Methodist Ladies" for returning the chimes to our Advent season.

With the conditions in the world being very questionable as they seem, it is nice to be on Main Street and hear chimes, and music from the Davis Family gift to the Methodist Church.

As Henry Wadsworth Longfellow wrote many years ago, "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day, Their old familiar Carols Play, of Peace on Earth and Goodwill to Men."

So Let it Be in Bethel this year and for many more to come. Thank you.

CHRISTMAS IN NEW ENGLAND

To the Editor:

Cynthia Immonen will present a program called "How Christmas Came to New England" which explains the European origin of many of our traditional celebrations at the monthly meeting of the Finnish-American Heritage Society of Maine on Sunday, Dec. 19, 2010. The meeting will be held at the Finnish-American Heritage Center, 8 Maple St., West Paris at 2 p.m. A brief business meeting will be held prior to the program and a coffee social will close out the day. The public is welcome to attend.

CONCERNS ABOUT NORTH ROAD ASPHALT PLANT

To the Editor:

I am one of many concerned North Road citizens worried about the Bruce A. Manzer asphalt plant requesting a permit from our Bethel town planning board to purchase a large parcel of property to run their plant on the North Road.

With a year of experience living near the plant, I know firsthand of the powerful fumes and smoke that come from this plant daily. There have been many days when the odor has been noticed on Mayville road as well as in town, as far as Sudbury Village on Evergreen Road.

I'm hoping the planning board will take the residence experiences into consideration and make a decision that works best for our beautiful tourist town, nestled in the mountains of western Maine. If this company is granted permission to run their plant in this area by the planning board, what will happen in the future if they operate and continue to create conditions that threaten businesses and poses health risks for homeowners and others using our recreational areas? What will we be able to do at that time? Who has the authority to regulate the way such an industry operates? What recourse do abutters and those living nearby or those with businesses dependent on clean, fresh mountain air to attract and keep their respective businesses humming have? Will surrounding residences be granted an abatement of taxes due to the pollution this plant continues to produce nearby?

These are very important issues that deserve answers in order to keep our town clean. Please, let's all work together on this very important issue.

WOODSTOCK TREE-LIGHTING THANKS

To the Editor:

On Friday, Dec. 3, the annual Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony was hosted by the Woodstock School. Santa Claus arrived in fine style on a Woodstock Fire Truck and of course was immediately surrounded by children of all ages. He brought the children together around the tree, counted down to one, and turned the lights on.

Now that the lights on the Christmas Tree on the Common in Bryant Pond/Woodstock are shining brightly, it is time to thank some folks.

First a word of thanks to the Woodstock Board of Selectmen who voted to purchase new LED lights and have them placed on the tree on the common after a few years of using the tree at the Library. We have had many people comment as to how beautiful the "Tree" looks.

Second, thank you to G.O. Hayes for supplying his time and lift truck to help put the lights on the tree.

Thirdly, to the members of the Newry Fire Department who came down with their ladder truck and assisted in the project.

Fourthly, to the members of the Woodstock Fire Department, who, as did all of the others, gave up a Sunday morning in November to oversee the decoration of the Christmas Tree for us.

And finally to the members of the Woodstock Highway Department who constructed the bright white star that sits atop the tree.

It is very heart warming to see willing volunteers make this popular community project happen. We all hope everyone will be able to enjoy this beautiful Christmas Tree.

Thank you all very much, we appreciate your efforts. We wish every one a very Blessed and Merry Christmas.

Road

tain it, and prevent private citizens from altering it. The suit also asks for compensation "for their damages plus interest, costs, expenses and reasonable attorney's fees."

But Richard Pelletier said Tuesday his intent is not to have the town maintain the road, but rather to put it back in its original location. He said his land abuts the road for 685 feet.

"I want the road back where the state of Maine said it was," he said. "I don't expect the town to maintain the road. They haven't had to maintain it for 100 years, why should they start now?"

He also said other residents of the road have posted parts of it as private, and he objects to that.

"It's the only road to C Pond," he said.

Ronnie Pelletier said that, on the advice of their attorney, she and her husband had placed "No Trespassing" signs on the road where it crosses their property, and had photographed vehicles driving on those parts of the road.

Letter

Brenda Stickney, who lives farther up the road, said she received a letter from the Pelletier's lawyer last summer regarding trespassing. She provided a copy with a letterhead of Margot Joly, Esq., of Joly & Associates of Wilton.

It said in part: "The purpose of this letter is to notify you personally, and any informal association to which you belong, to cease any activity which trespasses upon the property of Mr. and Mrs. Pelletier pursuant to 17-A M.R.S.A. I(E). Such activity would include your driving over the property of Mr. and Mrs. Pelletier and any activity that would widen or alter the road as it was originally laid out.

"If you continue to trespass on the property of Mr. and Mrs. Pelletier, I have been authorized to take appropriate legal action including the filing of a civil claim and reporting your activity to the Maine State Police and the Oxford County Sheriff's Department.

"I have further advised Mr. and Mrs. Pelletier to take any and all action to enforce the rights they have to protect their property from continued trespass by you, your informal association or any other person who continues to interfere with their use and enjoyment of their land."

Town's answer

In early November, Andover's attorney, Michael E. Saucier of Thompson & Bowe, LLP of Portland, filed a formal answer to the Pelletiers' complaint.

It denied the complaint's allegations, and noted that while the road south of and including what is known as the "new bridge" is a town road, the public has "prescriptive easement" to use the road north of the bridge. It also states the road north of the bridge has not been maintained by the town or the county since at least 1926.

The answer also said that for the suit to proceed, two groups of people should be included, because their rights may be affected: other owners of property along the road who have easements, and members of the public who use the road.

On Tuesday Saucier, citing the pending litigation, declined to comment. As for the timeline of the legal process, he said the court had issued an order establishing a deadline of July 15, 2011 for completion of the discovery phase.

Subdivision

Two years ago Richard Pelletier proposed a seven-lot subdivision off Sawyer Notch Road. The ordinance required that developers upgrade to town standards private roads that connect to their subdivisions.

The road was approximately 16 feet wide, towns officials said in 2008. Town road standards require a 24-foot width, as well as specific grades, crowns and depths for a gravel base.

The Planning Board granted a waiver on the requirement, which would have applied to a mile-long stretch of the road, but the Appeals Board upheld an appeal by Stickney that planners had exceeded their authority.

When the decision went against him, Pelletier said he would drop his plan to build the subdivision. But he also said he planned to consult a lawyer because he had put an estimated $85,000 into the project.

He said Tuesday that the current complaint is not related to the subdivision issue. He said he has since sold one lot on that property, given four to relatives and kept two lots that border an old farm that he owns on the road. He said he has no plans for those lots.

Bethel wreath-laying schedule

BETHEL—A fundraising effort to place a Christmas wreath on the graves of 119 military service veterans at Riverside Cemetery in Bethel has collected enough funds for an estimated 80 to 90 wreaths, according to volunteer Craig Davis of the Civil Air Patrol. As part of the nationwide Wreaths Across America observance, the Bethel wreaths will be laid on Saturday, to coincide with a similar event at Arlington National Cemetery in Virginia. At 10 a.m., Boy Scouts will place the wreaths on many of the graves. Family members who want to place wreaths on their loved ones' graves should be at the cemetery between 10 and 10:30 a.m. At noon a ceremony will take place at the Civil War monument on Main Street, beginning with the singing of the national anthem by a Telstar High School student. The American Legion Commander will then give a speech, and a wreath will be placed for each branch of the military, including Coast Guard and POW/MIA.

Woodstock appeal, camp hearing

WOODSTOCK—An appeal of the Planning Board's approval of a site plan for the Patriot Renewable wind project on Spruce Mountain has been filed by Nathaniel Snow of Bethlehem, N.H. He owns the property with a building nearest to the planned towers. Town Manager Vern Maxfield said Tuesday. The Appeals Board will meet to consider it Dec. 16 at 7 p.m. at the Town Office. In other business at Tuesday's selectmen's meeting, Fire Chief Geoff Inman said work is progressing with the Greenwood Fire Department in working out a schedule for proposed shared daily coverage for the two towns. The board also held a public hearing/presentation by Susan Jennings of the University of Maine Extension regarding the use of public service grant funds received by the UM 4-H Camp in Bryant Pond. Jennings said that students of all ages from area school systems had participated in educational activities at the camp, and that scholarships for seasonal programs had been awarded. High and middle school students also participated in a partnership with the Lakes Association in a milfoil eradication project.

Deadline for Andover warrant

ANDOVER—The Andover Selectboard is beginning to prepare the 2011 annual warrant. Requests for articles to be included in the warrant should be brought to the Select board by Tuesday, Jan. 11 to help meet the print deadline, board chair Susan Merrow said. Committee and department reports for the annual report should also be submitted as soon as possible to Tina Farrington, secretary to the selectmen. The Budget Committee meets Wednesday nights at the Town Office. trustee, and oversee the use of the land and the emergency water supply.

The AG also initially proposed Bethel maintain the infrastructure necessary to put the brook back into service. The infrastructure is located on land that will continue to be owned by the BWD.

Town Manager Jim Doar told selectmen Monday that the AG has dropped the requirement. Instead, he said, the BWD will maintain the infrastructure as part of a "gentlemen's agreement."

Under the legal procedural requirement, the AG will file a complaint in Superior Court in Oxford County as a prelude to the agreement. Döar said that will happen before the end of the year. For Bethel's part, a Town Meeting vote would be required to approve the agree-find themselves a bit confused by the lay of the land it represents.

For instance, if inspired by a sentence on Page 13: "Bethel's lakes and rivers are an outdoor escape — so much fun," visitors were to set off in search of such fun, their search would come up dry.

Bethel, but for a tiny sliver of shoreline at the north end of Albany's Songo Pond, boasts not a single lake, let alone "lakes," not even a pond — at least in the eyes of the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife.

In the finer print of its body copy the guide does make occasional mention of the ground it covers as the "Bethel area," or "Bethel region," but in the larger type of its headlines, it's all about smell?" We've also smelled it in downtown [Bethel]. When you come down by Gould in the morning when the plant is operating, you can see the smoke. It goes up a thousand feet and spreads out. Bethel is in a basin. The odors don't leave quickly. I hope this board considers the economy. This could be devastating to Bethel."

Fred Siebert of the Jolly Drayman at the Briar Lea Inn said he often sends bicyclists who stay with him over the North Road on road trips to the White Mountains. The plant, he said, would damage the route's appeal.

Cheney also worried about the effect on the town's swim pond/recreation area at Angevine Park, which is on the North Road near the proposed plant location.

"What are we going to do — hand families a mask so they can go and sit with their children and enjoy this? It's not going to be pretty. It's mixing uses incredibly badly."

The board also received a half dozen letters from residents opposing the plant.

One was from lawyer Norman J. Rattey, representing Dick Douglass. Rattey noted that Manzer holds an air license from the Maine Department of Environmental Protection issued in 2008 for the temporary plant, but he said the board should ask DEP to "investigate the cause of the excessive emissions that occurred over the summer months," before approving the new application. He also recommended the board retain outside professionals to review the application.

"I do not believe that it is in the best interest of the neighbors or of the residents of the town at large that the Planning Board make a hasty decision on this application, given the health concerns at stake," he wrote.

Draft minutes from a site walk planners took in November indicated the plant would be subject to DEP oversight, random inspections and emissions testing. It was also noted that Manzer, who also has a plant in Phillips, has no record of DEP violations. But the minutes also said there is no formal method for measuring odors.

Other letters noted concerns about increased truck traffic. There was one Bethel resident at the hearing who spoke in support of the plant.

"In a slow economy, this would provide some very good jobs, and some very good taxes," said Bob Chadbourne. He said he felt the positive effect would outweigh the negative.

Manzer was present at the meeting, but under the for-cessfully with those, with limited dust, but it became clear to us that if you were going to deliver these to any population density they were too slow, and they were quite noisy, and we needed to do something better."

In search of that, MESys began looking to western Europe, where fully pneumatic trucks are already in use.

Rather than moving the pellets mechanically from the tank into the airtight and then blowing them, the whole tank of the truck is pressurized, Dresser said, and release of the pellets into the delivery hose is controlled entirely by the manipulation of air valves.

of dust, but some burners can struggle with it, because it is difficult to get sufficient air through the dust to burn it.

MESys's early experience with mechanical/airlock systems "created a fair amount of dust, he said, "until we learned to manage both systems simultaneously."

"The fully pneumatic truck virtually eliminates that complexity and risk."

But no such trucks were yet available in this country, so MESys went to work with Trans Tech Industries of Brewer and Tropper Maschinen und Anlagen GmbH of Redham, Austria to build one.

It arrived last Thursday, and grees) This product is accepted by the Maine DOT and allows us to cut our carbon dioxide emissions by 80 percent and our fuel consumption by 15 percent. Fumes are nonexistent when the material is placed in the truck, when the truck dumps, and does not subject our employees to excessive heat and fumes. We use the system approximately 60 percent of the time.

"Per DEP regulations we were required to do a mandatory stack emission test performed by an independent testing lab to determine the level of emissions that we put into the atmosphere and our particulate emissions were well below the standards."

"Until we applied to move our plant we had zero complaints from any of our neighbors including the Douglasses as we were buying aggregate from them."

"Because of their actions and business decisions, we decided to move and possibly buy product from others and that is when the problems surfaced."

Manzer also said his company has contributed approximately $2 million to the local economy in aggregate purchases (including from Chadbourne), fuel purchases, payroll, parts, lodging, and meals, as well as the use of 25 to 30 independent truckers.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Tis the season to be in search of the perfect Christmas tree. This has always been one of my favorite yet most dreaded parts of the holiday season.

I know that sounds like a contradiction in terms, but it just happens to be true. It's one of my favorite times because I love a fresh cut tree. The color, size, shape and scent shout out to me, "It's Christmas!" I love how the decorated tree looks in my home and I love seeing it loaded with presents under the boughs.

The selection of the tree has been one of my most dreaded times because I am or have been a Christmas tree perfectionist and it has always driven my family crazy.

We have spent many hours in the cold trudging through tree lots with various family members holding up tree after tree that I would reject until the perfect one was held up and it spoke to me, "take me home."

The frozen feet and hands, the pitch and pine needle prickles always managed to dampen my family's gaiety of the season. Not to mention the fact that I always selected a tree that was too big to fit adequately on the roof of the car, which led to a slow cautious ride home in fear that my perfect Christmas tree would go flying off of the roof.

Then once at home the tree would need a serious pruning just to get it to fit through the door and then I would grumble that my perfect tree wasn't perfect any more. I have been known to be a bit unreasonable when it comes to my vision of the perfect Christmas tree.

I know my attitude comes from my childhood of many Charlie Brown Christmas trees. My father's idea of the perfect tree was one growing along the roadside that was easy to get to. How it looked was of no importance as long as it was accessible and no one was around to witness the cutting.

I have been known to be a bit unreasonable when it comes to my vision of the perfect Christmas tree.

When I was young I didn't understand that we didn't have the money to buy a farm-grown tree and my father was doing the best he could. But even when I was old enough to understand that cost was an issue I still thought our Christmas trees were pathetic and vowed that when I grew up I would never ever have a Charlie Brown Christmas tree.

I will admit that, at times, I have been ridiculous over which tree would grace the corner of my living room. I'm much more sane about the selection now, in fact I don't even go to pick out the tree any longer. I still want the perfect tree and I feel that I have schooled my son and son-in-law on my idea of what that is, so I have one of them pick one for me.

They probably pick the first tree they come to in the tree lot, but if I don't see the perfect ones they didn't pick I'm okay with that. I guess acceptance comes with age plus the fact that I no longer care to freeze to death to fulfill my idea of perfection.

Now I have discovered that you can buy live Christmas trees on the Internet and have them shipped right to your door. Can you imagine that?

According to an article in the Boston Globe online Christmas tree sales have gone way up. There are some growers that even take videos of their tree-farms and the cutting process and post them on YouTube so the buyers can feel like they are part of it while staying warm and cozy in front of their computers.

There's something about this that just doesn't feel right to me. I kind of like having my son or son-in-law at my beck and call and when they bring me my tree and they smell like the Enchanted Forest I feel almost like I was there.

Son-in-law Jay picked out my tree this year and I'm quite pleased with it. I'm sure it wasn't the best tree on the lot, but it certainly isn't a Charlie Brown tree either.

Age and a complete disdain of being cold has made me a lot more mellow about the trees that are picked for me. And the way I see it, if the trees are not exactly up to my standard there's always next year when my perfect Christmas tree may be only a click away.

EASY, HEALTHY Entertaining

FAMILY FEATURES

Hosting a fabulous party doesn't have to include all of the typical calorie-laden, unhealthy food and drink options. These days, it's easier than ever to create great tasting dishes that also bring good nutrition to the party and your guests.

Here are some appetizing ideas to get you started:

- A cheese platter — Offer a wide variety of cheese slices and chunks available for nibbling. They're flavorful and filling, so a little goes a long way.
- Fresh fruit — A gorgeous selection of colorful fruit will help satisfy sweet cravings without all the calories.
- Hummus — Set out several flavors of hummus and some pita bread and flatbreads for a savory, protein-rich appetizer.
- Caprese salad — This Italian delight made of sliced low-fat mozzarella cheese, sliced tomatoes and fresh basil, drizzled with a little olive oil, will satisfy your guests as they enjoy this delicious snack that's also good for them.
- Spiced nuts — Nuts have good fats, protein, vitamins and minerals. Set out bowls of roasted nuts flavored with chili and lime, wasabi, garlic or — as a sweet surprise — cocoa.
- Create your own original dips and spreads — like a delicious avocado spread or a flavored, low-fat cream cheese dip — to serve alongside whole grain flatbreads.
- Mini sweets — Instead of huge pieces of fattening cheesecake or carrot cake, make lighter versions and bake them up mini-sized. A few bites of deliciousness are all your happy guests will need.

These recipes from Wasa are perfect for entertaining a large crowd — or even if you're just looking for some new snack ideas — and feature new Wasa Thin & Crispy Flatbreads. The thin whole grain crackers have a delicious taste and are the perfect healthier alternative to buttery crackers that provide a satisfying crunch. Plus, the topping possibilities are endless— think of them as a blank canvas for creating countless varieties of party appetizers and every day meals that are uniquely your own. For more information and recipe ideas, visit www.wasa-usa.com or on Facebook at www.facebook.com/wasa.

Bethel

By Nancy Brown

The Christmas holiday season in Bethel officially began on Saturday, Dec. 4, with the arrival of Santa Claus who rode up Main Street on the top of a fire truck. Santa arrived at the Bethel Common in time for the lighting of the Christmas tree. Santa's visit was part of a series of holiday events that continues through Christmas Eve.

I spent part of Saturday afternoon taking the horse-drawn wagon ride through Bethel. The wagon rides are scheduled for two more Saturdays, Dec. 11 and Dec. 18, from 2 to 4 p.m. You don't have to be a kid to take the wagon ride. The ride starts at the Bethel Common near the Chapman Inn.

A horse named Sam I Am, who is decked out in sleigh bells, pulls the wagon down Church Street, across Elm and High streets, and back up Main Street. During my ride, passengers sang Christmas songs and waved to everyone along the wagon's route. Sam seemed to love the attention.

The rides are free and Sam is happy to pose for pictures. When he's not giving wagon rides, Sam lives at Deepwood Farm in Albany. Later in the winter, Sam will give sleigh rides at the Bethel Inn. You can call the Bethel Inn for ticket information.

Bethel has received a dusting of snow over the past week. Temperatures have been in the twenties at night and are allowing the local ski areas to make snow on the mountains. From Bethel you can see the lights on Mt. Abram as snow is made.

However, it takes more than a few cold nights to freeze the rivers and ponds. The thin layer of ice on the edges of the ponds and bogs will not support either animals or people. Please do not go out on the ice until it is safe.

The Rotary Club of Bethel Annual Seniors' Christmas Luncheon will be held Tuesday, Dec. 14, at 12 noon at the Jackson-Silver American Legion Post 68, Gore Road, Greenwood (Locke Mills). There will be a ham dinner with all the traditional fixings and live entertainment.

Marcia and Laurence Austin have returned from a three-week tour of Wales and Sussex and Kent, England.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Carrie E. Holt, of Berlin, N.H., who died on Dec. 2. Carrie graduated from Gould Academy in 1947. She is survived by her husband, Carl, her three children, brothers Avery Angevine and Ernest Angevine of Bethel, John Angevine of West Stewartstown, N.H., and her sister Mary DeLois of Shelburne, N.H.

West Bethel

By Lorrie Hoeh

We woke to two inches of snow on Saturday morning, and the world was transformed. Everything suddenly looked clean and fresh again. In the woods every branch and pine needle was limned in white. The trail was more easily distinguishable from the rest of the undergrowth, and tracks were readily visible. It seemed almost sinful to leave our human and canine tracks on the pristine path.

Of course, most of that Friday night snow has melted or sublimated by now, and Monday's "storm" didn't hit us. It hit downeast Maine pretty hard, however, with reports that Route 9 (the "Airline") was closed because of too much snow. Would that we had received some of that here so that we cross-country skiers could have enjoyed it! The good news is that the ground is freezing before we have a heavy snow cover, which is better for ski trails, gardens, and such.

Last Wednesday our spinning group had its annual Christmas party at the home of Doreen and John Simmons on Streaked Mountain Road in Paris. There were twenty of us busily knitting on Christmas projects, sharing a sumptuous potluck lunch, partaking of a Yankee Swap, and enjoying each other's company. Our next meeting will be the first Wednesday in January, the 5th by my reckoning. We meet at the West Parish Congregational Church from 10 to 2, with a potluck lunch. Any spinners, knitters, or would-be spinners/knitters are invited to join us. Call me for more information.

Thursday night's piano recital at Gould's Trustees' Auditorium was marvelous. Tamara Poddubnaya brought two of her star pupils to entertain us. And entertain us they did, with a wonderful program, and with Tamara performing as well. I am really looking forward to next summer's "Music Without Borders," when Dr. Poddubnaya returns with more of her talented international students for three weeks of amazing recitals.

It was certainly a busy weekend around town and elsewhere. I hope that many of you were able to partake of the many events going on in and around town. I met friends at the Congregational Church Fair and Tea on Saturday afternoon, and after some shopping at the fair, we all partook of a lovely tea, with finger sandwiches, multiple varieties of cookies, and delicious tea and/or coffee.

From there I dashed home to don my old-fashioned duds to sit in the parlor of the Moses Mason House, guarding the fireplace and window candles, and doing a little knitting as well. Connie St. Pierre was there with me, playing Christmas music on her harp, and we met and greeted a great many visitors, both familiar and unknown to us. It seemed like a bigger crowd than we've seen in years, which was very pleasing. Afterward we saw the Marjorie Noll Award presented to Jean Owen in recognition of her many years of volunteering at the Historical Society in several different capacities. Congratulations to Jean on this well-deserved honor.

Finally, on Sunday afternoon we drove to Farmington to see our son-in-law, Paul Stancioff, perform as part of the Farmington Community Chorus in a presentation of Mozart's Requiem. The music was glorious, the acoustics excellent, and the audience very appreciative of a magnificent performance of this beautiful music. Coincidentally, we were informed by the conductor that it was the 200th anniversary of Mozart's death, so this work was especially appropriate.

Several Christmas knitting projects, not to mention baking, shopping, wrapping, etc., beckon. I expect many of you will be similarly occupied in the coming weeks. Do let me hear from you: dhoeh@megalink.net; 824-2917.

Gilead

By Lin Chapman

It appears that winter has arrived. We have some snow on the ground and more on the way. Each television station seems to have their own opinion on what will happen with the weather when there is an upcoming storm. At least they agree that there is one coming, but snow totals never seem to agree. That is when you take an average of their totals and come up with your own!

The winter birds are gathering at the feeder early Monday morning. That usually means that they are getting ready for a storm. There were lots of Chickadees, Goldfinches, Tufted Titmice, Red-breasted Nuthatches, White-breasted Nuthatches, Blue Jays, Juncos and the occasional Sparrow. The Cardinal shows up a few times a week.

My brother, Steve McLain, has all his snow equipment ready to handle whatever amount of snow arrives. The plow is on the pickup and the snowblower is ready to roll.

Lise McLain went to Quebec City, Canada this past weekend with her brother and his wife, Andre and Eileen Dupont. They attended the services for the relative that recently passed away.

Congratulations to Morgan McLean, daughter of Jamie and Alicia McLean. With the help of her family and many friends, she is doing a great job raising money for the 5th grade this year. She has worked very hard and continues to do so.

Hugh and I went to the Bethel Area Business and Home Expo last Saturday at Telstar. The gym was full of booths that were set up by area businesses. We got to go around and see what there was to offer. We also ran into several people that we had not seen in quite a while.

Hugh and I went to Tim and Michele's in Gorham, N.H., last Sunday. There was a birthday party for our granddaughter, Annie Chapman. She turned 8 years old on Nov. 30. Also attending were the other grandchildren, William, Ajay and Sidney and Michele's parents, Leo and Ann Croteau.

Hanover

By Clem Worcester

Last week November slipped into December and with that, the avid hunters rushed to the Town Office to purchase muzzle-loader permits for extra hunting time in the woods. Overall deer kill in our area has been reported as slower than past years.

Officials from the Hanover Town Office are reminding everyone that dog licenses are due Dec. 31 for all dogs over six months of age. A spay/neuter certificate if applicable and an up-to-date rabies certificate is required at the time of licensing. This year the late fee for not licensing dogs is $25.

A good group of Hanover neighbors and friends from the area came to the tree lighting at the Hanover Town Office last Saturday. Following an introduction by Select Board Chairperson Brenda Gross, the youngest person there flipped the switch that turned on the lights. Proudly doing the job was 12-year-old Makala Worcester. Her father, Brian Worcester, donated the tree and erected it at the Town Office. Following the lighting everyone sang seasonal songs before going inside for hot chocolate, coffee and dessert items. The younger people and some of the adults enjoyed decorating balls to take home to their own trees.

Get well wishes to Lillian Turner who recently has been ill.

In Knights of Pythias news some local area people traveled to Brunswick last Sunday to attend a Christmas party at Fort George Lodge. Attending from the area were Freeman and Norma Farrington from East Andover, Danny and Janice Bennett and Michael Bennett from Milton Township and Clem and Donna Worcester from Hanover. Following the potluck dinner a gift exchange took place along with fund-raising raffles. On Dec. 15 there will be another Knights of Pythias Christmas party at Colonel Brewer Lodge in Brewer, Maine, starting at 6 p.m.

The Rumford Grange held their December meeting along with a Christmas party last Saturday at the home of Butch and Vicki Clark on Ellis River Road.

It is that time of year when we have rain and snow and all kinds of bad weather so everyone please drive carefully.

Christmas is approaching fast and most are busy shopping, decorating, and wrapping presents. In Germany most do not put up their tree till Christmas eve as part of the tradition is to have an Advent wreath to celebrate the four Sundays before Christmas.

I do still have some Thanksgiving news to share. The Haines family met for Thanksgiving on Nov. 24 at the home of George Haines and daughter Lisa. Nancy Haines and son Joseph of Greenwood, and Harvey Small of Greenwood, Peter Haines, Nancy Mercer, James Haines of Gray and his partner Darren were all there and enjoyed a delicious dinner together.

Aline had a nice Thanksgiving dinner with her children and their spouses, Jennifer and Lee Norris, Ryan Stowell, Jarrod and Paige Crockett. Heidi Holt was their special guest. What a wonderful young lady!

Aline Dupont and Gerard Dupont (Jarrod's mother and grandfather) went to his swearing-in ceremony at the House of Representatives in Augusta on Dec. 1. They both are very proud to have been there to witness this ceremony.

The Alder River Grange will meet on Dec. 10 at the home of Bert and Ruby Bryant in Norway, on 7 Bolster Street which is off Beal Street. Everyone going will meet at the Locke Mills Church parking lot at 4:45 p.m. and all will go down together. There will be a potluck supper at 6 p.m. and the meeting at 7.

This week it is time for a new Trivia question. Who had owned a shingle mill and why did it close? Make sure to call 824-3220 or e-mail han@megalink.net with your answers.

Have a great week everyone.

Upton

"Hasty pudding" is heard about and sung about this time of year. In a very old recipe book, I found that it was made from cornmeal mush, boiled till thick, cooled, sliced, fried, and properly doused with molasses. Are you going to try some this year from a similar recipe?

The Christmas program was well attended. Jacob and Andrew Coulombe entertained us with their trumpets. Lexie-ann Hart played her violin and Bridgette Hart played her viola. Jennifer and Caitlin Casey, Lotty Casko, Andrew and Jacob Coulombe and Keona Bouchard presented a delightful play entitled "Christmas Lights." Cameron Bouchard worked on the set and behind the scene. Santa Claus was wonderful! He had stockings and gifts for all the children and stayed for most of our party. The kids gathered together many snacks to sustain him on his trip. Jes Bernier, ordinarily terrified of the jolly ole' fellow, offered him a candy cane! Ladies Aid members passed out baskets to the seniors. The Bingo games were fun as well.

Sympathies and prayers are extended to Sue and Dick Angvine in the passing of his aunt.

Upton is blessed with about 7-8 inches of snow which was delivered in a couple different storms. Joe Bernier found that northern Maine was blessed with much more than that when he took a trip to Millinocket this week.

Hope you have a wonderful week. Selah

Andover

A busy weekend in Andover coming up -- the craft fair is at the Fire Department on Saturday, with the arrival of Santa Claus at 1 p.m.

There will be a Kids Christmas party at the Andover Public Library also on Saturday, from 2 until 4 p.m. There will be crafts, stories, music, fun and snacks, all downstairs. R.S.V.P. at 392-4041. This holiday party is being hosted by the Library Trustees and is free to all ages (children under 5 need to be accompanied).

Gerald and Helen Deanis just returned home from a visit to their daughter, Kimbalie Moore and family in Vidor, Texas. While there they celebrated Kim's birthday, Thanksgiving and had an early Christmas. Gerald went on a fishing trip with son-in-law Clay and grandson Christopher. The trip home was a long one due to the weather, but otherwise it was a wonderful time.

Happy birthday to Francis Ellis Bailey on Saturday the 11th, Hunter Nadeau on the 15th, and Tyler Freeman on the 13th, who shares his birthday with his grandmother Becky!

The Andover Food Pantry is coordinating efforts with Santa's Helper this year to assist Andover families. Those from town who would like to request help for Christmas are asked to contact Linda Couture at 364-7968.

Enjoy the weekend, shop, shop, shop!

Have you noticed that the field mice are coming inside for the winter -- again. I've caught several in traps baited with peanut butter. I am also planting little trays of D-Con pellets in the garage, attic and basement. I was talking about this subject with niece Elsie Aylward a few days ago, and she related this story, after explaining why she wasn't sure she was going to park her car in her garage this winter.

It seems that she parked her car in the garage last winter, and Mike at Mighty Wrench found a couple mouse nests in her engine compartment when she took it in for him to service it. Not long after that, she noticed a foul odor in the car whenever she turned the windshield defroster on. She took the car back to Mike, and he removed a batch of those pesky D-Con pellets that the mice had stored under the hood. After this, Elsie noticed a strong fishy odor whenever the defroster got warmed up. She took the car back to Mike, and this time he removed the entire dash panel, and found it full of fish pellets that she feeds the fish in her pond in the summer. Apparently, the mice had been storing the pellets in her car for future use! This year, she is trying to make sure she gets rid of the garage mice before she parks her car in there! I haven't checked lately to see how well she did.

As I was cutting pine logs last Saturday, I had another of those "eye opening" experiences one has now and then. Every now and then as I saw the limbs off trees, especially if they are under tension either under the trunk or against neighboring trees, they snap and pop the saw chain off the bar just as the saw teeth touch the limb, releasing the tension. Last Saturday it was a good size pine limb underneath the trunk that was obviously bent by the weight of the tree. Not unusual. Just as the spinning saw chain touched the under side of the limb, snap! The limb instantly broke and the chain jumped off the saw bar and hit my left kneecap a sharp, but not heavy-blow. Nothing was broken, but I had to look and see if the knee was bleeding. Nope! Just a tiny black and blue spot and another tiny red spot about an inch apart. I think the ripstop fabric of my Labonville "logging pants" kept the chain from breaking the skin. Sometimes it pays to be properly defended! I enjoy the challenge of cutting wood.

West Paris

The thermometer stays in the lower numbers, even below the freezing mark for several days. What a beautiful snowfall. The earth was white with three or four inches containing much water. It soon melted. As I did not need to get out I enjoyed the warmth and the TV and I always have plenty of books. I plan to keep extra canned food on hand also a well-stocked freezer. And I can always walk to Trap Corner for milk and eggs. I did catch up on the laundry. The loads are small compared to keeping a family of eight neat and clean.

On Sunday, Dec. 12, at the West Paris Universalist Church the Rev. Richard Beal has as his sermon topic, "What do We Make of the Virgin Birth?" All are invited.

On Christmas Eve the usual Candle Light service will be held at 6 p.m. Please join us.

The Goodwill Fellowship will gather on the 14th at Berly Bonney's to fill and deliver baskets for the shut-ins. The group will have their usual exchange of gifts followed with refreshments.

David Walton is doing well after his shoulder operation. His recovery gives me encouragement for I need my shoulders repaired too.

I finished my life's history and have it ready for my children and grandchildren for Christmas as they had requested. There are still more episodes to write about so will continue on to be added later. As for washing clothes my mother had a scrub board and then was very happy with a wringer washer. Her water was heated in the large copper boiler on the wood stove and the white clothes and sheets were boiled in the boiler to keep them white. Then all was hung outside on the porch. All winter most were brought in and thawed before ironing. A modern washer and dryer sure makes life much easier.

I have no desire for the good old days.

There is no sleeping late here for Muffin can tell time! She wakes me at six and insists it is time to eat.

Dec. 9 (today) is the Whitman Memorial Library program. Time is 1:30 p.m. Please note time change. The Woodstock Elementary School Chorus, under the direction of Linda Stowell, and a Sing-A-Long with Susan Glines. Come join them, no charge, light refreshments.

Judith Grover tent 17 DUVCW will hold their Christmas party and meeting on Dec. 13. Please bring a gift to exchange, and it's a tasting party.

Linda Stowell hosted an annual cookie making day on Saturday, Dec. 4. After the snow stopped, it was decided the event would go on, and Rachel Adams, with Ben, Josh, and Zack, along with Sarah Stowell, Abbey and Maya, showed up ready to go! Aunt Sue Glines was in charge of preparing the dough, and soon the operation was underway. Everyone had his or her own apron to wear, including one-year-old Zachary. They cut out many cookies -- angels, trees, stars and other shapes. After all the baking had been done, there was a brief break for lunch. Then came the decorating! There was a little tasting going on throughout the whole process! Everyone took home an assortment of cream cheese, molasses and peanut butter cookies that looked just as good as they tasted.

Services at the Baptist Church are Sunday school at 9:15, morning worship at 10:30, evening service at 6. Wednesday evening is prayer meeting at 6:30. Dec. 11 is Men's breakfast at 7 a.m. at Calvary Bible Church in Andover. Sunday, Dec. 19, at 6 p.m. is the Church Christmas program.

The Woodstock Extension will meet on Dec. 15 at the home of Alice Hoyt for a tasting party and exchange of gifts.

The Christmas tree lights on the common are very pretty. Thanks to the firemen for decorating it.

Waterford

By Rockie Graham

My column didn't get printed last week, so this is part of that and more.

I hope everyone had a great Thanksgiving. I know we did. The turkey came out great and so did the pies and cranberry sauce that Deena made. We also had a green salad and potatoes and a sweet potato pie. We had a lot to be thankful for - great friends, great food, a great new house. We have no complaints. Thank you to all who helped us during the past year.

As many of you know by now, I am back to work, at least one day a week, for now. It was great to see old friends and new ones and to get back into the groove of things. Look for me, probably on Saturdays for now.

This being December, we can plan on snow cancellations and sloppy roads. I'm planning on holing in for duration. I already gave up on Sunday because the roads were squirrely. Not for me when I didn't have to go anywhere. Today I shall venture out again. And today I did have to, but I lucked out, I only had to drive in the storm a short while. It only snowed from about 11:30 to 12:30 or 1. Then it was great. Elsewhere it didn't snow at all. And of course, up in Bangor and Down East, they got plastered.

Last night, I went to our annual Chanukah Celebration. It is fun for a person from each family to be able to light a menorah and celebrate the Festival of Lights which is Chanukah. This year Chanukah was early. It lasted until Wednesday, the 8th. Happy Chanukah to all!

Thursday, the 9th, ACA will meet at 10 a.m. at Waterford Library. We are working on Step 4, still. Come and join us. FMI call 739-9115.

Great to see people again at work. Hopefully this week we won't have more snow squalls and the wind will behave. Last week it was vicious, again. I just bought new snow pants to keep dry and keep the wind from blowing through me. That is all for this week. Stay warm and stay safe on these roads. And thanks to Denny or whomever did such a good job sanding Hunt's Corner Road.

Christmas at the Bethel Library

Christmas books are now on display at the Bethel Library. Patrons can check out five at a time.

Christmas gifts are also available at the library. You can buy a beautiful book bag that says Bethel Library for only $6. You can also purchase a gift book for the library in the name of someone. Call the library at 824-2520 for further information on gift books.

The Cross Country Quilters display a "Quilt of the Month" at the library. The November quilt was made by Marlene Engdahl. It can be viewed in the library's front room during library hours.

The library is open Monday from 9 to 1 p.m.; Tuesday from 1 to 5 p.m.; Wednesday from 1 to 8 p.m.; Thursday and Friday from 1 to 5 p.m.; and Saturday from 9 to 1 p.m. If there is a large snowstorm, the library may not be able to open on schedule. In the event of inclement weather, the library staff suggests calling 824-2520 to see if they are open.

Art Exhibit at West Paris Library

"One Woman's Journey: the Art of Jane Porter Gibson" will open at the West Paris Library on Friday, Dec. 17. There will be an evening reception from 5 to 7 p.m., an opportunity to meet Jane and enjoy her work.

The Friends of the Library group timed this second exhibit in the new addition and the original castle, to coincide with the Christmas season. Jane's linoleum block prints were designed as Christmas cards over the years. Each of these prints captures Jane and her husband Bill's life on their Stearns Hill farm in West Paris. These "moments," whether it is a rooster bringing the dawn, a black cat pausing at the farmhouse's snowy doorway, or steam rising from the sugar house in the spring air, announce with a beautiful simplicity the heartfelt spirituality of their daily lives. Many will be familiar with these images from the 2007 calendar, "Save the Barn on Stearns Hill Farm."

The show moves backward in time, tracing the artistic journey of a woman with many interests. It is clear she has had a lifelong fascination for older houses; "Red House" and "White House in Moonlight," as well as village and cityscapes; "Boston Remembered," and "Front Street" and "Abbott Hall, Marblehead." These tell of the time that preceded her and Bill's return to the family farm. "Red Rover" and "Hansel and Gretel" seem to foretell her future vocation, teaching young people. She has the distinction of being the first SAD 17 art teacher, eventually settling into the Agnes Gray school community in West Paris as the fourth-grade teacher.

Jane's first art class was at a small college in Nebraska where she majored in English literature, followed by graduate study in art education at Columbia Teacher's College in New York City. When Jane and Bill moved to Georgia with their two daughters, she was profoundly inspired by a local college art teacher.

Jane's art work has evolved over the years as her life experiences have changed and allowed her time to express her feelings in various media, including oils, crayons, ink, collage and most recently linoleum block printing.

The Gibsons continue to live on Stearns Hill, in a new house of Jane's design, built in the apple orchard above the farm.

The West Paris Public Library is proud to have this selection of Jane Gibson's art to share with the public during library hours: Monday and Friday, 1:30-6 p.m.; Wednesday, 1:30-7 p.m.; Saturday, 10-2 p.m., through Saturday, Jan. 29, 2011. FMI please call 874-2004.

SUCCESSFUL SANTA SUNDAY—Sunday River Ski Resort hosted Santa Sunday on Dec. 5. Two hundred fifty skiers dressed from head to toe in Santa costumes donate $10 each and receive three days of free skiing. The donations go to the Rotary Club of Bethel's Christmas for Children program. After the Santas skied down hill together, a check for $2,270 was presented to Rotary President Joe Arizzi and President Elect Ellie Andrews. The total raised as of Monday for the project was $7,185. The goal is $12,000. (Submitted photo)

MORE SUPPORT FOR CHRISTMAS FOR CHILDREN—Steve Etheridge (right), owner of Rooster's Roadhouse Restaurant & Pub in Bethel, recently presented a $2,000 donation to the Bethel Rotary Club's Christmas for Children. The donation (an equal donation was made to the local charity, "Christmas for Families" a week earlier), represents a portion of the annual fundraising efforts of the local restaurant's management, staff and their patrons throughout the year. The efforts continue over the next few weeks, with customers sponsoring Holiday Ornaments that decorate the pub area at Rooster's. For a minimum donation of $10, people receive a handmade "lobster claw" holiday tree ornament to take home, while supplies last.

Christmas with the Masons

Nearly sixty persons attended the annual "Christmas at the Mason House" at the 1813 Dr. Moses Mason House in Bethel on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 5, from 3:30 to 5 p.m. The early 19th century residence on the Bethel Hill common was decorated with evergreen boughs, berries and fruit for the holidays; fireplaces were blazing and candles lit. Harp music played by Connie St. Pierre was enjoyed in the parlor, and hot mulled cider was served from the hearth in the winter kitchen by new volunteer Savannah Sessions. Special holiday cookies and other fancy desserts made by Allan Marcotte, Mary Ennis, Rachel Mackay, Marvin Ouwinga and Stan Howe were available in the dining room. Hosts and hostesses for the afternoon event were Lorrie Hoeh, Alan Marcotte, Mary Ennis and Savannah

Following the open house, there was a special gathering in the Mason House Exhibit Hall to thank the many individuals who volunteered in 2010.

lene Lowell, Tammy MacDor-mand, Jim Macgregor, Rachel and Blake MacKay, Allan Marcotte, Grace McKivergan, Nancy Mercer, Florence Morgan, Cathy Newell, George Nickerson, Jack and Lucy Nordahl, Ted Orino, Marvin and Tineke Ouwinga, Jean Owen, Charlie Raymond, Lucia Schwarz, Stephen Seames, Savannah Sessions, David and Maryjane Shiverick, Vicki Smith, Katie Stover, Jan Stowell, Bill Strauss, Kent Taylor, Sarah Tucker, Jackie Van Leuven, Dean and Priscella Walker, Nancy Stowell Wight, Margaret Wight, Asher Wilson, Dennis Wilson, Edna York, and Jane Young. Executive Director Randall H. Bennett expressed sincere thanks to all of the above for their dedicated service during the past year.

He then presented the 2010 Marjorie MacArthur Noll Volunteer Service Award to Jean K. Owen of Bethel for her long record of distinguished service to the society. "Jean is always eager to help in any way possible," Bennett said in making the award. "She is very gracious and noted for her attention to detail," he added. "She so thoroughly embodies the spirit of Mrs. Noll in her positive attitude and strong desire to serve the organization in so many ways," he continued in honoring Mrs. Owen.

Established in 1985, the Noll Volunteer Service Award honors the memory of Marjorie MacArthur Noll, one of the most dedicated society volunteers, and is presented annually to an individual who has provided outstanding service to the Society.

Founded in 1966, the Bethel Historical Society is western Maine's largest and most comprehensive historical agency. With over 1,000 members, the society fosters a sense of place - with a focus on western Maine and the White Mountain region - by collecting, preserving, displaying and interpreting historically significant artifacts and documents for residents, visitors, students, and scholars. Through its exhibits, programs, events, and publications, the society makes the region's history meaningful, accessible, and enjoyable.

In 1974, the society acquired the former Broad Street residence of Dr. Moses Mason, which now contains a period house museum, exhibit hall and research library. In 1999, the society opened the O'Neil Robinson House (next door at 10 Broad Street) to the public for an expanded exhibit program, museum shop space, and administrative offices.

Over the past forty years, the society's achievements have been recognized by a number of state and national organizations. For more information: 824-2908 / 800-824-2910 / info@bethelhistorical.org.

"We are going to be a young and inexperienced team at the High School Varsity level this year, trying to revive the program after last year's hiatus. The team will rely on the leadership of its three senior captains, Emma Davis, Cheyenne Day, and Nicena Walker, as well as Jenna Putnam who along with Davis are the only girls to play at the High School level last year on the boy's team. What we are lacking in experience the team is more than making up with enthusiasm, energy, and great team support. Seventeen is a tough number to juggle, especially with playing time at the varsity level, but we are going to work this season to get really good at the basics trying to improve with each and every game. It is hard to say what the season will bring, but I am optimistic and truly believe we have the potential to surprise some people as the season progresses." —

Coach Mark Kenney

New England homeowners spend billions of dollars a year on #2 heating oil for residential heating. Forward thinking homeowners are looking to alternative fuel sources such as wood pellets for their centralized heating needs. Headquartered in Bethel, Maine Energy Systems (MESYS) is Maine's leading distributor of wood pellet boilers systems and bulk wood pellets. MESYS pioneered the introduction of automatic wood pellet boiler systems and bulk pellet distribution to the U.S. beginning in June 2008. MESYS was motivated by the New Englanders' extraordinary dependence on #2 oil for home, business, and institutional heating. Maine Energy Systems (MESYS) offers both semi-automatic and fully automated wood pellet-fired boiler equipment for new construction or as a replacement for an existing home oil burner system. MESYS's premiere line is the AutoPellet series. This is a wood pellet boiler which is fully automated from fuel to ash.

Ash: The AutoPellet's ash removal system makes it stand out from its competitors. Ash is removed from the floor of the boiler chamber by a small auger, which compresses the ash into a storage bin. The system reports when it is time to remove the ash from the storage container, which is then dumped easily into a degradable bag for disposal or spreading on the garden. This process is required infrequently, two or three times a year in most cases, is very clean, and takes but a few minutes.

Pellet Storage: All systems offered by Maine Energy Systems are self-feeding. Pellets are stored in bulk storage tanks for fuel and require no manual attention for fuel feeding. Bulk delivery of wood pellets to the storage bins, and the fuel feed systems ensure a continuous fuel supply to the burner whether you're at home or on vacation.

Control System: The control system on the AutoPellet series of boilers is very sophisticated allowing for precise tuning of the system to your needs. It will even integrate solar panels and other boilers into the system if you have those needs.

Other Advantages: Other advantages to the AutoPellet system are that the boiler cleans its own tubes automatically twice a day; the system requires professional cleaning only once a year, like fossil fuel systems.

MESYS primary mission is to support a transition to the use of renewable wood pellet fuel for heating of homes and businesses. MESYS systems will keep home and business owners comfortable with their heat and comfortable in the knowledge that they are being good stewards of our environment. This fuel transition will not only lower costs for users in the long run, it will also help reduce their carbon footprint.

Getting Your Kitchen Ready For The Holidays

(StatePoint) "Broken appliances can really ruin a holiday," says Jamie Breneman, contributor to TheSavvyShopperBlog.com and spokesperson for N.E.W. Customer Service Companies. "But by following a few simple steps, you can prevent common failures and extend the life of your appliances."

Protect Your Oven

Self-cleaning options can be real time-savers, but they also stress your oven. During the holidays, wait to run the self-cleaning cycle until after the major meals are done.

Also, purchase an oven thermometer to make sure

Karen Dunham to John E. Cox III of Bryant Pond, land and building at 60 Andrews Hill Road, $10,000, Oct. 28, 2010.

About the listings: The information above has been compiled from the latest public records in the individual the oven is heating properly. If not, you may want to have a professional technician from a vetted service vendor come and check it before the holiday cooking begins.

Replace the Aged

When gearing up for the holidays, take an inventory of major appliances to see if anything needs repairs or replacing. Gas ranges usually last about 15 years, fridges for 13, while dishwashers and microwaves usually have a lifespan of nine years. If any of your appliances need replacing, make sure to do your research so you buy the most energy-efficient model that fits in the space allocated for it.

Save Time & Money

Given the modest to heavy price tag on most appliances, you should be clear on what happens if the appliance breaks or needs repairs. Extended service plans, such as those offered by NEW, not only provide you with free technical support 24/7, they also provide access to fast, in-home service from professionals. A good service plan can even provide town offices. The transaction prices are sent to the town by the Maine Revenue Service and may not arrive and be filed for several weeks after the purchase closing dates. Timeshares and condominium transfers are not included.

you with a sizeable food allowance should your fridge go kaput.

Test Your Fridge

Before you stock that fridge with holiday goodies, conduct a simple test to make sure it's keeping food cold. Stick a dollar bill in the door with half of it sticking out. If you can pull it out, you have a leak, which can lead to increased energy bills.

If you have a leak, look for a repairman to fix it instead of buying a new one. It will save you money, and you'll help the planet by reducing electronic waste.

Keep it Cool

To make sure you've got enough ice for your holiday gatherings, throw out any old ice and clean the bin. Also, make sure there's room between your ice maker and the back of the unit, so as to avoid creating a kink in the water line, which can stop an icemaker -- and party -- cold.

Then start cooking!

How to cut home heating costs this winter

Radiant floor heating could cut monthly fuel bills while warming your winter

(ARA) - Some savvy homeowners are having their cake and eating it too when it comes to energy-efficient home heating. Imagine cutting your heating bills, while boosting your home's comfort. Sound too good to be true? Not for the thousands of homeowners who are using radiant floor heating, one of the oldest and most efficient means of heating a home.

The technology, dating back to the ancient Romans, uses warm water to heat the floor, instead of a furnace to heat the air. Modern radiant systems pump warm water through an in-floor network of PEX tubing (crosslinked polyethylene), which, in essence, turns a home's entire floor into a massive whole-room radiator.

Many families actually feel warmer at a lower thermostat setting with radiant floor heating than at a higher temperature required with conventional forced-air heating systems. Studies conducted by the American Society of Heating, Refrigerating and Air-Conditioning Engineers (ASHRAE) indicate that people with radiant heating systems can be comfortable at temperatures 6 to 8 degrees lower than with forced-air systems. The lower thermostat setting means using less energy and saving more money.

Ideal for retrofit radiant applications, Uponor Quik Trak tubing snaps into the groove running down the center of the wood panels simply by stepping on it.

Feel warmer at a lower temperature

Picture a beautiful sunny day. It's 65 degrees outdoors, and you are standing under a large tree. You may feel a bit chilly if there's a breeze; but as soon as you step into the sunlight, you're comfortable again. The air temperature is roughly the same in both sun and shade, but you feel OK because the sun's radiant heat waves warm you directly.

The same concept applies to a home with radiant floor heating. As the invisible waves of thermal radiation rise from the floor, they warm you and all the surrounding furnishings, which radiate that captured heat.

Contrast that with what happens in a conventional forced-air heating system, the kind found in most American homes. Hot air blows out of the registers and rises to the top of the room where it quickly sheds heat and then drops back down as it cools.

In a radiant home, all that warmth stays at the floor level where the people and, most importantly, their feet live. And if your feet are warm and comfortable, chances are, so are you.

"Because radiant heating warms people and objects directly - as opposed to the surrounding air - residents are more comfortable, while often using less energy," explains Mark Hudoba, senior product manager, Residential Heating and Cooling, at Uponor North America, a manufacturer of PEX-based radiant heating systems. "Radiant systems tend to yield consistent temperatures throughout the space. In homes heated with forced air, the temperatures can vary by more than 15 degrees between floor and ceiling."

Moreover, because the distribution of heat is more evenly circulated, there is less need to "overheat" a home in order to compensate for spaces that seem too cool because of drafts or poor insulation.

New and existing homes

A radiant heating system can be installed during new-home construction or added to an existing home. Even if you choose not to opt for radiant heat throughout your new home, the builder can still install the PEX tubing in the basement floor or - if you don't have a basement - in the home's concrete slab. Radiant technology is also perfect for heating a single bathroom or a kitchen.

Other benefits of radiant heating include:

* Healthy atmosphere: Since a radiant system needs no fans or blowers to move its heat, family members with allergies are, not subjected to the circulation of dust, mold, bacteria, viruses, and pet dander throughout the home.

* Quiet operation: No fans and blowers also means no noise.

* Interior design options: Radiant heating allows you to place furniture wherever you want with no concern about blocking air vents.

* Fuel flexibility: Radiant floor heating systems can accommodate a variety of energy sources; from the conventional (gas, oil- or wood-fired boilers) to the cutting-edge (solar thermal systems and geothermal systems) - or even, a combination of both.

Ask anyone who's had the pleasure: Once you've experienced the joys of radiant heating, you'll never want to go back to a conventional system. For more information, visit www.uponor-usa.com.

He was born in Greenwood on Oct. 6, 1934, the son of Beryl and Ethel Libby Martin. He attended school in Greenwood and Gould Academy before going to work full time. Roland worked several jobs in the Locke Mills and Greenwood area before going to work at Ekco Wood Products, later to become Gilbert Manufacturing, where he retired after 41 years in 1996.

Roland married Martha E. Santy from Berlin, N.H., on July 28, 1962. Roland "Tink" enjoyed playing guitar and especially enjoyed "working up 2-part harmonies" with his cousin Terry Martin. He also enjoyed being outdoors, hiking, rock hunting/mineral collecting, fishing and hunting.

He is survived by his wife, Martha; son, Mark; aunt, Norma Knight; brother, Rexford Martin; sister, Sandra Morgan; two grandchildren, Glenn and Andrew Martin; and nieces and nephews.

At Roland's request there will be no visiting hours. A family only graveside service was held at Martin Cemetery in Greenwood. Brittany Lietz didn't think that indoor tanning could hurt her.

She didn't know UV light from indoor tanning can actually increase your risk of melanoma, the deadliest form of skin cancer.

Brittany, a frequent indoor tanner since she was 17, was diagnosed with melanoma when she was 20.

She is a melanoma survivor, but current estimates show that one person dies from melanoma about every hour.

Don't be one of them.

Indoor tanning is out.
